

Creating and Managing a “From Here to There” Map

Teams need a map to help guide them through the process of stabilizing, assessing, repairing, improving, preventing, and growing in order to have a healthy organization. Decisions must be made around questions that begin with “Why? Who? What? When? Where? and How?”. Leaders must take control and steer the team back on track after “detours”; “breakdowns”; “bad road conditions”; “rest stops” and “backseat fights”. Every team must agree on who makes these decisions and who drives the process. “Buy-in by permission” is essential.
